

SELECTED BASINS AND RANGES OF THE WESTERN U.S.

(These tectonic features range from Late Paleozoic to Recent, were not all active at the same time, and are not all completely exposed and visible in modern landscapes. As with any natural phenomena, this is a fractal problem in that there are few natural size cutoffs to decide what should be included and what exceeded. The selection below is idiosyncratic.)

